

The Basics

From exquisite seafood to hearty bowls of Irish stew, all tastes and budgets are catered for in this Dublin Good Food Guide. Let the listings lead you on a culinary journey as you explore the city centre's fantastic array of local and international eats. Gastro pubs and coffee shops share streetscapes with Mediterranean, Indian and Mexican restaurants, while French and Italian fare is enjoyed alongside organic and vegetarian options. Don't miss out on Dublin's superb Asian restaurants including Japanese, Thai and Korean fare along with modern asian fusion gastro delights provided by award winning international chefs.

WELCOME TO HOWTH

Ireland has to offer just 20 minutes from Dublin City Centre. Renown as Ireland's culinary capital for seafood and fine dining, make sure you make the trip, if only to eat some of the best fish and chips you will ever eat. Howth has many award-wining restaurants and offers great craic and music in some fantastic pubs.

Explore Howth Village's pretty harbour with its fishing boats, marina and plagues to historic events. Visit the Museum of Vintage Radio, Ireland's oldest inhabited Castle and the monolithic tomb known as Aideen's Grave walks with views from Dublin Bay to the Mourne Mountains. Boat trips, scuba diving and sailing are readily available and are a great way to view the stunning coastline. It is easy to reach by car or DART from the city-centre to Howth DART Station, or take the 31/a bus from Talbot Street.
